CUPE slams bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) predicts "intensified confrontation and conflict" next year if Parliament passes a bill to link public service pay to increases in the private sector.

"Bill C22, the bill to amend the Public Service Staff Relations Act, is a declaration of war against the country's public sector workers," the executive board of CUPE, the country's largest union with 250,000 members, said Monday after a weekend meeting.

The bill would instruct arbitration boards and advise conciliation boards to compare the total value of pay and benefits with a representative selection of organizations outside the public service when determining public service increases.

"The argument that public sector workers spark inflation is a big lie fabricated by Liberal party propagandists and their statisticians in yet another attempt to prove that the Liberal party is the only political party worthy and capable of governing the national affairs of the country," CUPE executives said.

"Public employee unions have been set up as national bogeymen by Prime Minister Trudeau and his party as part of their campaign philosophy of fabricating false crises that only the Liberals are capable enough and decisive enough to solve."

Arson kills three

TORONTO (CP) — Arson is suspected as the cause of the pre-dawn blaze that raged through a paper warehouse Monday, leaving three firefighters dead and causing $750,000 damage.

Fire officials said it is the third time in two years that arson has been suspected in fires at the giant Kimberly-Clark of Canada Ltd. warehouse in northwest Toronto.

But so far, officials have yet to prove it. Firefighters dug frantically through mounds of paper for about two hours Monday before bodies of two of the men were uncovered by workers using front-end loaders.

The dead were identified as District Chief Lloyd Jones, 54, Capt. Donald Kerr, 46, and firefighter John Clark, 44, all of Toronto. Jones, senior member of the department, had 28 years service, Kerr 23 years and Clark 14 years.

Fire officials said the men were killed when 4½-metre-high stacks of paper rolls, wet and weakened in the firefighting effort, collapsed.

Student honored

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia student has become the first woman in the province to win a Rhodes scholarship.

Catherine Milsum, 21, of Vancouver was chosen for the 1979 scholarship from among 13 applicants, a university spokesman said Monday. She was also the only woman among the 13.

Theatre production planned

These actors are preparing for the Terrace Little Theatre production of Ben and the Boxes, written by two Terrace residents, Charlie Thiesen and Dave Dossor. The play will be seen at the Kalum Playhouse at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 7 and Dec. 9 and at 8 p.m. on Dec. 8.

Two matinees will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Everyone who plans to attend should get their tickets early as there are only about 75 seats per performance.

Advance tickets are on sale at McColl Realty and sell for $1.50 for adults and children.

SHELFORD AGRICULTURE

B.C. cabinet shuffled

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier Bill Bennett today announced major changes in cabinet responsibilities and extensive reorganizational changes within ministries of his three-year-old Social Credit government.

Bennett added two new ministers to his cabinet and announced the creation of a new ministry to reduce or eliminate red tape.

Three ministries disappeared in the shuffle and two others were absorbed by other ministries.

New cabinet ministers are Elwood Velch (SC-Burnaby-Willington), chairman of the committee on Crown corporations, and Cyril Shelford (SC-Skeena) who becomes agriculture minister.

Velch also becomes the minister responsible for the B.C. Steamship Corp. and a director of the B.C. Development Corp.

Shelford was agriculture minister from 1968 to 1972 under the previous Social Credit administration.

Bennett said that Grace McCarthy will move from provincial secretary to human resources minister, but will remain deputy premier.

She also becomes the minister responsible for the Insurance Corp. of B.C. (ICBC), a post previously held by Education Minister Pat McGeer.

Hugh Curtis, minister of municipal affairs and housing, has been assigned the expanded provincial secretary and government services ministry.

He will be responsible for the B.C. Buildings Corp. and the Government Employee Relations Bureau.

Bill Vander Zalm moves from minister of human resources minister to municipal affairs minister with responsibility for the Urban Transit Authority.

Rafe Mair, former consumer and corporate affairs minister, becomes environment minister and a director of ICBC.

Bennett told a news conference that he will continue as chairman of the cabinet committee on confederation and will become chairman of the environment and land use committee.

In a switch, former environment minister Jim Nielsen becomes consumer and corporate affairs minister.

McGeer assumes additional responsibilities for science and technology under an expanded education, science and technology ministry. He also becomes a director of B.C. Hydro.

Bennett said that Jim Chabot, moves from minister of mines and petroleum resources to become minister of the new lands, parks and housing ministry with a mandate to make Crown land available to the citizens of B.C.

Jim Hewitt, former agriculture minister, now is energy, mines and petroleum resources minister and a director of B.C. Hydro.

Highways Minister Alex Fraser becomes minister of an expanded transportation, communications and highways ministry with a mandate to develop a transportation policy for B.C.

The premier said Fraser also will be responsible for the B.C. Ferries Corp. and B.C. Air Services including assistance programs for local airports.

Heading the new deregulation ministry is Sam Bawli, the former recreation and conservation minister.

Bennett said the ministry has a self-destructing clause, and has a two-year mandate to cut red tape in government.

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe has his ministry expanded to take in the research and analysis division of the economic development ministry. He continues as minister responsible for the B.C. Systems Corp.

Also retaining their portfolios are Attorney-General Garde Garmom, Economic Development Minister Don Phillips, Forests Minister Tom Waterland, Health Minister Bob McClelland and Labor Minister Allan Williams.

In what the premier described as significant changes, the agriculture ministry was given an expanded mandate to promote the processing of home-grown food; the attorney-general's ministry takes over the film classification division from consumer and corporate affairs; and labor was given the sole responsibility for the safety engineering division of the former highways and public works ministry.

Bennett said the "sweeping administrative changes constitute an entirely new look to the structure in many ministries."

Bail refused

After being charged with three counts of fraud, three counts of possession of a restricted firearm without a permit and one count of possession of marijuana, a man calling himself Kenneth William Bowers did not convince Judge Darrall Collins in Terrace provincial court on Monday that he should be allowed out of jail until his next court appearance on Dec. 11.

Bowers, age 31, was charged on Friday but he did not make a plea on Monday in court.

The man's true identity has not been established, Tom Bishop, crown counsel, told the court.

The charges were laid after a man established seven bank accounts in the Terrace-Kitimat area and wrote cheques amounting to an estimated total of $317,000, said Bishop.

The cheques were written on personalized cheques from one bank to accounts at other banks, said Bishop.

The man apparently obtained a truck from a Terrace car dealer. The truck was worth $12,000, Bishop said.

The man convinced one bank to give him $2,000 in travellers cheques, he said.

When police arrested the man he had two identification cards on him under the names of Bowers and Green. A third identification card wasn't complete, said Bishop. The man has also been known as Duffy, he said.

Police, according to Bishop, found a loaded pistol in the man's motel room at the time of his arrest. They also found a small quantity of a substance alleged to be marijuana, said Bishop.

The man appeared to be preparing to leave the area when police arrested him, said Bishop.

Bishop said police are still investigating and there may be further charges against the man.

Judge Collins said that he was not satisfied that the man calling himself Bowers should be released. "If someone can devise a scheme to get money in this way, he could find a way to leave town if he wanted to," he said.

The man was remanded until Dec. 11 at 9 a.m.

IN IRAN

Government is tottering

TEHRAN (AP) — Thousands of oil workers launched a new round of job slowdowns Monday hoping to topple Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi by drying up the country's all-important oil revenues, reliable sources reported.

In Tehran, three days of bloody anti-government protests appeared to be winding down Monday. But in a new twist to what has been a one-sided struggle by unarmed dissidents against the military's guns, a guerrilla band attacked a police station, killing one officer and wounding another.

Youthful protesters also set fire to a bank in the heart of the capital, causing considerable damage. But otherwise the armored military patrols stationed at key points in the city seemed generally in control.

The government reported its troops killed 17 persons and wounded 50 in Tehran and the southern city of Isfahan since the latest violence exploded Friday night. Diplomatic sources put the death toll at more than 30 here and in provincial cities and some of the shah's opponents claim as many as 3,000 persons have been killed, a figure most observers believe to be wildly exaggerated.

"We're fighting to the death now, we have shed too much blood to stop," one militant who identified himself only as Hassan told a reporter at the burial of a half-dozen slain protesters in a Tehran cemetery.

The opposition is both religious and political—orthodox Moslems who want to reverse the shah's Westernization of the traditional Islamic society and political dissidents who want to end his authoritarian rule.

Sources who asked not to be identified said the new slowdown by many of the 37,000-man work force in Iran's southwestern Khuzestan oil fields immediately cut Iran's daily oil production by two million barrels, one-third of the normal level.

"We expect the slowdowns to get worse tomorrow and production to drop even further," one well-placed source said.

Iran, the world's No. 2 petroleum exporter, depends heavily on its oil revenues.

Leaders of the opposition, particularly the Paris-based Ayatollah Khomeini, exiled head of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect, had called for stepped-up street protests and a general strike beginning during the weekend.

MESSAGE MAY START TALKS

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin sent a message Monday to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt that might get the de-railed peace talks back on track.

Although official Israeli sources refused to disclose the contents of the message—Begin's reply to one from Sadat last week—they said it makes clear that Israel expects Egypt to drop its demand for linking the peace treaty to a timetable for Palestinian autonomy in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

Israeli Radio described the note as "polite but aggressive."

Egypt wants Israel to agree to a timetable, or at least a target date, for electing a Palestinian governing council, but Israel has rejected the idea. The Egyptians have agreed to a U.S.-proposed target date of the end of 1979 and are reported to be willing to incorporate this idea in a letter appended to the main body of the treaty.

In the West Bank, Israeli army bulldozers demolished the homes of two Palestinians convicted of political murders and terrorist operations, in what appeared to be a renewal of a policy of retribution.

The Israeli Supreme Court issued injunctions against the demolitions late Sunday, but a court official said the orders had not been delivered to the military government until Monday, after the bulldozers had gone into action.

Israel abandoned its policy of razing houses of guerrilla suspects, which were often described as terrorist hideouts, following international criticism that the action violated the Geneva conventions.

Alleged jew-killer's conviction quashed

THE HAGUE (AP) — A 79-year-old Dutch millionaire art collector, once convicted of killing Jews while serving with the Nazi SS (elite guard) in Poland in the Second World War, was freed Monday after a Dutch court reversed his conviction.

The district court said Pieter Menten had claimed that a former justice minister promised him immunity from war crimes prosecution after he was convicted of Nazi collaboration 28 years ago, and his claim "must be accepted as a possibility."

After the ruling, the diabetic Menten, who also claims to have a heart condition, slipped out the back door of Scheveningen prison near The Hague without comment. He had been in jail since his conviction last Dec. 14.

The ruling came after a 34-minute court hearing heard charges that Menten participated in the summer 1941 massacre of 20 to 30 Polish Jews at the village of Podhorocze, now in the Soviet Ukraine.

Menten had been convicted of the charges after a seven-month trial in Amsterdam, but the Dutch Supreme Court threw out the conviction in May, saying it found procedural errors in the Amsterdam trial. The high court said insufficient attention was given to Menten's immunity claim.

A successful tea dealer in pre-war Poland, Menten served an eight-month jail term in the Netherlands in 1949 for collaborating with the Nazis in Poland, but he was acquitted on charges of serving with enemy forces.

He fled the Netherlands in 1976 when the justice ministry moved against him on war crimes charges, but he was picked up in Switzerland and returned to the Netherlands to stand trial.

Correction

In the Dec. 1 edition of the Daily Herald we reported that the Thornhill water supply referendum will be held on Jan. 6. Later we pointed out that a regional district newsletter erroneously reported a referendum date of Dec. 7. We meant to report that the wrong date was Jan. 7 and the correct date was Jan. 6. We apologize to anyone who was inconvenienced.

LEATHERBACK TURTLE

A big one but not for soup

OTTAWA (CP) — Blair Clow, a Prince Edward Island fisherman, knew he had a big one when he saw the turtle caught in his net.

And scientists at the National Museum of Natural Science proudly introduced Monday a rare 1,000-pound leatherback turtle named Sweetums, after the Muppets (of television fame) monster.

The six-foot, 10-inch male, which drowned in Clow's net in September, had just been shipped frozen from the East Coast in a fish truck after being identified by Nova Scotia museum experts.

Francis Cook, museum herpetologist—an expert in reptiles and amphibians—said there was probably a little dicking with restaurants first.

But scientists here have been waiting for the likes of Sweetums for a long time, said Cook as he showed a giant turtle tank built nearly 14 years ago.

A check with major science museums in the United States and on both Canadian coasts showed Sweetums may be the only leatherback left intact, he added.

"One estimate says there are only about 1,000 female leatherbacks in the world," he said. "And estimates are based on all known nesting beaches where the females have to come ashore to lay eggs."

Moreover, scientists have no idea how old Sweetums is.

"The baby turtles are hard to keep in captivity and die soon after. We have no idea how long it takes to grow a turtle of this size."

Despite Sweetums' size, females grow much larger, Cook said.

"It is thought that marine turtles in northern waters are an accident," said Cook although reports have documented sightings off the East Coast since 1889.

Some of the five types of marine turtles will haul themselves out of the ocean to bask in the sun "but as far as we know leatherbacks never do."

Most marine turtles become sluggish when they leave the warm Gulf Stream waters and head into colder parts of the ocean because their blood temperature drops to match surrounding water temperatures, Cook said.

"However, leatherbacks found in cold water are very active and have food in their stomachs. It's almost warm blooded because the blood temperature is about 18 degrees Celsius above the water temperature."

Because Sweetums has already thawed, scientists must work quickly to reproduce the specimen in a plaster cast for later exhibitions before the real animal is preserved in formaline, Cook said.

"These things are rare and endangered and this is a good opportunity for us to examine him."

All marine turtles have become endangered species as men collect eggs from the warm sandy nests for food, he said.

"The leatherback flesh is not regarded as a delicacy as it is the green turtle. It can even become a deadly meal at times."

Cook said not enough is known about the leatherback to explain why the meat can be toxic.

He said the main diet of the leatherback is jellyfish and some of the largest concentrations of the giant turtles are found near schools of jellyfish.

Now's a good time to get in shape

Christmas is coming up faster than expected so why wait until you've feasted yourself past your weight limit, get in shape now. The Terrace recreation department offers a wide variety of free programs designed to help you keep fit, and enjoy doing it.

Jog with John is a fitness program for people of all ages. Enjoy 15 minutes of structured exercise, then play a quick game of soccer, or floor hockey. It's held Monday and Wednesday from 5 to 5:45 p.m. at Parkside School Gym.

Family Gym Time is the perfect opportunity to bring the whole family out for an evening of family fun and exercise. Its held every Thursday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at E.T. Kenny School.

Recreation Sports for Adults, is a program that lets you do what you want. Bring some friends to Uplands School Gym. Mondays evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. for an evening of invigorating fun.

Mens Indoor Soccer, take this chance to practice your skills, and get into shape for the soccer season. Everyone is welcome at the Thornhill Jr. Secondary School Gym from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays.

All these programs are free, so don't delay get into shape now.

On December 12, 1978, from 6:30 to 10 p.m. the recreation department will sponsor a candle making workshop. A professional candle maker will show you how to make unique and traditional candles in a variety of styles. You'll be able to take home your creations which will include a dipped tapered candle, molded candle and a rolled candle, to name just a few, and all materials will be supplied by the Recreation Department.

So if you are interested in this exciting workshop please contact the arena office at 638-1174.

WEATHER

A ridge of high pressure building in from the northwest is bringing colder, drier air with it. As a result, one can look for sunny skies and cool temperatures.

This type of weather should continue until the end of the week. High temperatures this afternoon should be around 0 degrees Celsius, while tonight the mercury will probably dip to about -7 degrees Celsius.

If this type of weather lasts more than a couple of days, the wind will probably begin to increase, and it will be cold, cold, cold once again.

Judging from the forecast, it quite possibly may be time to once again dig out that heavy winter parka.

HYDRO INQUIRY

Beggs defends self

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former Manitoba Hydro chairman David Cass-Beggs defended himself Monday against suggestions that he had acted in haste as an adviser to the provincial government.

He told an inquiry into the affairs of the Crown corporation that he made recommendations on power development in northern Manitoba in 1969 after only a few days of study.

But he said his quick review of the situation was justified by a general feeling of "desperate urgency" to get new power projects under way as soon as possible.

Inquiry lawyer Richard Scott asked Cass-Beggs if he had misgivings about advising the government without the chance for more elaborate studies of potential problems.

The former chairman replied: "I certainly felt it was a great pity that Manitoba Hydro and its advisers had not looked at these problems from 1963 on."

The Progressive Conservative government of the day decided in the late 1960s to proceed with diverting some of the water of the Churchill River to generating plants planned along the lower Nelson River.

The diversion plans were held up after the New Democratic Party won the 1969 provincial election. The alternative that finally emerged included a smaller diversion of water from the Churchill River and use of Lake Winnipeg as a back-up supply of water for Nelson River generating plants.

The inquiry is attempting to determine whether the utility acted wisely on the basis of the best information available at the time important decisions were made.

During Monday's hearing, Cass-Beggs was critical of the original plans for diverting the Churchill. He said the project was beautiful in pure engineering terms, but would have resulted in widespread environmental damage in the North.

Cass-Beggs was named as an adviser to the NDP government in the summer of 1969 to explore alternatives to the plans proposed by the Conservatives. He was appointed chairman of Manitoba Hydro in January, 1970.

Monday's testimony showed that Cass-Beggs exerted a strong influence on major decisions in at least three instances:

—In the fall of 1969, Hydro officials were intent on proceeding with plans for a new thermal generating plant near Selkirk to make sure Manitoba would avoid "brown-outs."

Cass-Beggs said his own studies revealed that enough extra power could be "squeezed out" of existing sources to cover the utility's needs for an additional year or two. The Selkirk plant was never built.

—Early in 1970, the Manitoba Public Utilities Board urged Manitoba Hydro to increase its rates, but the Hydro board rejected the advice. Cass-Beggs said the consultants used by the Public Utilities Board really didn't understand the difference between public and private utilities and their recommendations weren't really worth following.

The inquiry is to continue today.

Fulton critical of transport deal

The federal New Democratic Party candidate for the Skeena riding, Jim Fulton, slammed in a recent press release, the Liberal government's handling of coastal transportation.

"The federal government bungled coastal transportation on the northern B.C. coast and is now looking for a scapegoat rather than a solution," said Fulton.

"The controversy over the replacement of services for 'Northland' has been simmering on the B.C. coast for two years now. The lack of planning by the federal government has resulted in high costs, inadequate service delivery, and inconvenience to coastal communities," stressed Fulton.

Most residents agree that a service is required that regularly delivers freight at reasonable rates and at the same time offers safe, reliable passenger transport.

"The Queen Charlottes are receiving better service than many smaller coastal communities, however, the subsidy structure requires change," said Fulton. At present, vehicles can be shipped between Masset and Prince Rupert at a subsidized rate, but only without passengers.

"The passengers can then receive a subsidy on their air transport," noted Fulton, "but only if they travel with certain airlines and are residents of the Queen Charlotte Islands."

"If tax dollars are to be expended for a subsidy, they should be for the benefit of as many island and coastal residents as possible," stressed Fulton. This would mean a direct subsidy for such commodities as food, drygoods, hardware and so on. The subsidy could be on a sliding scale for different types of freight.

"For example," continued Fulton, "a ceiling freight cost would be placed on such commodities as milk, fresh fruit and vegetables." Any transportation cost above this ceiling would be paid by subsidy rather than by the consumer. The subsidy would in this way be reflected in an increase in the purchasing power of the family income.

"Coastal residents are at present discriminated against economically," said Fulton. The federal government last year subsidized the east coast freight and passenger service to the tune of 128 million dollars and B.C. received 8 million.

"If some principles of realistic freight costing were incorporated with a passenger service, most B.C. coastal residents would be satisfied," said Fulton. "Two initiatives are required to achieve progress in this situation," stressed Fulton. Firstly, obtain a transport committee inquiry and subpoena witnesses. This is necessary in light of the unusual circumstances surrounding this issue.

Secondly, renegotiate the 1977 subsidy agreement, either by amendment (under section 8) or by termination (under section 9).

"In concluding," said Fulton, "the federal government has hidden long enough, and we need action."

COURT NEWS

Melvin Edwin Clayton was sentenced by Judge Darrall Collins on Monday to a total of 15 months in prison when he appeared in Terrace provincial court for sentencing. He had pleaded not guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft of a truck earlier this year.

Clayton was first charged after the Terrace Medical Centre was broken into on March 20. A sale was removed from the building and a 1973 pickup truck was stolen.

Judge Collins said that $1,500 damage was done to the medical centre building and $500 damage was done to the truck. Clayton was given nine months in prison for breaking and entering and six months in prison for theft. A juvenile was also involved in the March 20 incident.

After pleading guilty to five counts of breaking and entering and one count of possession of stolen property Glen St. Goddard was sentenced to spend 90 days at the Terrace Correctional Centre on weekends and placed on two years probation.

Judge Collins said the weekend stays at the correctional centre will begin at 8 a.m. on each Saturday and end at 8 p.m. on each Sunday until the 90 days are completed.

St. Goddard was charged after the Lakelse Esso and four residences were broken into on Aug. 5 Collins said the sentence would have been harsher but St. Goddard has not reached the point where he cannot be rehabilitated.

James Boake, age 17, was sentenced to pay a fine of $150 or spend 10 days in jail in default after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana.

Boake was charged on Nov. 3 when police discovered 1 1/2 ounces of marijuana on him, said Tom Bishop, crown counsel.

Kelly Backman was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or five days after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana. He was also placed on nine months probation.

Backman was discovered by Skeena Mail employees in the washroom of the mail on Nov. 10 at 6 p.m. with the marijuana, said Bishop.

George William Henry was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 or 14 days after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving. His drivers license was automatically suspended. He was charged on Nov. 19 after he hit a department of highways fence.

Barrett speaking

Dave Barrett, former premier of B.C., will be the guest speaker at the New Democratic Party nomination convention on Saturday Dec. 9 at 1 p.m. at the Thornhill Community Centre. The general public is invited to hear Barrett speak.

After Barrett's speech, NDP members from the area will vote on who will represent them in the next provincial election. Francis Sabine of Terrace and Frank Howard, former Skeena MP, have declared their intention to seek the nomination. Graham Lea, MLA for Prince Rupert, and Jim Fulton, federal NDP candidate, will be guest speakers at a dinner to be held in the community centre beginning at 8 p.m. on Saturday. A dance will be held starting at 9 p.m. after the dinner.

Howard suggesting new plant for here

Frank Howard, candidate for the NDP nomination in the Provincial Riding of Skeena, today released a letter he wrote to General Motors urging that company to establish an aluminum die-casting plant in the Kitimat-Terrace area.

Howard's letter was prompted by news reports that G.M. was considering such a plant somewhere in Canada. The letter sets out five major reasons why such a plant would be appropriate for the area. Those reasons include the fact that aluminum, a prime raw material, is produced in this area. Electrical energy is readily available there. Transportation facilities would make the plant's production available to world markets. There is also adequate land and space available.

Howard said employment and economic stability would result from such a plant.

"When news of G.M.'s thoughts became public," said Howard, "I was appalled to hear that the Provincial Government was not interested in pursuing the possibility of seeing such a plant established here. In fact, former Socred M.L.A. Newell Morrison who is on the Board of Directors of the B.C. Development Corporation is quoted as saying that B.C.D.C. would make no moves whatever and would wait for an offer from G.M."

Howard said also that he had received a guarded reply from G.M. saying that no immediate plans existed for such an expansion, but that his letter would be kept on file.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CP Air
Attention: Mr. Ian Gray,
President

Dear Mr. Gray:

As MLA for the area, I am extremely disturbed by the service of CP Air to the Terrace-Kitimat area.

The service was satisfactory when there were three flights a day. I realize that there are less people travelling in the winter months and therefore three flights a day aren't warranted. However, the best flight, which was the afternoon flight, was cut off — rather than one of the poorer ones. The afternoon flight was particularly good for older people, women travelling with small children, and the sick or disabled. The morning flight, especially, is seldom able to land at this time of the year.

If these people come on the night flight, it is often very late when they get into Terrace-Kitimat. Last Friday, Nov. 17, we got to Terrace via Prince Rupert at 3:30 a.m. — this was the flight which was due in Terrace at 8:10 p.m. Nov. 16. Those going on to Kitimat did not reach their destination until 4:30 a.m. People who aren't sick before are often ill by then.

The wait in Prince Rupert for the bus is often over an hour with no coffee shop open or any place for people with babies or small children to warm a bottle.

One other complaint I often hear is that after paying for the flight to Vancouver, and being bussed to Prince Rupert, people have to pay three dollars to cross the harbour.

In my experience with overseas flights and Trans-Canada flights, CP Air service is normally satisfactory and — for the good of the company name — I urge you to take a hard look at improving your service to this area.

I especially urge you to bring back the afternoon flight because, if it has to be rerouted to Prince Rupert, the passengers can still get home at a reasonable hour.

Trusting you will give this recommendation your sincere consideration.

Yours very truly,
Cyril M. Sheldford,
M.L.A. Skeena

EDITOR'S JOURNAL

BY GREG MIDDLETON

It's time. I've gotta confess. I'm addicted. That's right, I have a habit I can't kick. I'm a popcorn head.

I suppose it all started when I first went to college. All the other kids were experimenting with illicit substances which altered your state of consciousness. They were using things like potato chips and pizza.

We would sit around in smokey, dimly lit rooms listening to old blues musicians and drinking beer. In order to continue the imbibing of the golden brew we started on salted nuts. From there it was into the more exotic things like ripple chips and garlic dip. But it wasn't until the night we went to the restricted movie that I discovered that I had hidden desires.

I don't remember the movie. I'm not even sure I saw the film. I had my nose buried in a box of double buttered. Now I know that the pre-popped, cardboard-like stuff they pass off at the theatres was junk compared to the real thing.

I can still recall the first night we tried it. Someone brought a bag of the stuff over to my apartment. We got out a pot to cook it up in. All those golden kernels held a fatal fascination for me. The first time we tried to make it I went out of control. They couldn't make me put the lid on the gallon pan until I had watched three batches explode into the air and cover the floor three-inches deep.

After going through a pound of popping corn and half a pound of butter, with enough sprinkles of salt to make a camel drink we lay around on the living room rug so parched we could have been on a desert.

The very next day one of my compatriots used part of his scholarship money and bought a gallon of extra large white kernels and an electric corn popper. I was working my way through school and had to make do with a big aluminum pot and a pound of yellow popping corn and butter at a time.

I didn't know I had a habit until I went on a trip and stocked up on those individual, foil wrapped, already buttered outfits.

It was terrible. Now I can afford the exotic imported stuff. The gourmet popping corn. There is no more slinking down to the corner store in the dead of night. It still preys on my mind though. I wonder how long it will be until I'm found out. Until someone sees the telltale husks between my teeth, smells butter on my breath or notices my cracked lips.

Now that I've confessed I do feel better though, but pass the salt.

INTELLIGENCE SAYS

Iranian gov't may fall

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Carter has been advised by intelligence sources the Iranian government has no better than a 50-50 chance of surviving beyond December and mass evacuation procedures are being practised for U.S. residents there.

Following the bloody events of the past weekend, U.S. intelligence officials are reported to believe he 11-month struggle by opposition groups to topple the Shah of Iran and his military government are in a crucial phase.

In three straight days of clashes that started Friday, observers estimate more than 300 demonstrators died in rioting. Official government reports claimed only 12 died, but correspondents discovered the higher totals by checking burial figures.

New slowdowns started Monday in Iran's vital oilfields and there were attacks on police stations in Tehran.

One of the intriguing questions is what the United States, Iran's strongest foreign backer, will choose to do as pressure grows against the Shah.

Iran has strategic significance for the United States as a Mideast ally, besides its economic importance as key oil supplier and sometimes moderating influence in oil pricing.

So far, the U.S. intelligence service apparently continues to see Iranian unrest in the context of this usual American concern over spreading Soviet influence.

Weekend reports say Carter has been advised the Soviet Union is financing conservative Moslem opponents of the Shah, funneling money through French and Italian Communist parties.

But this analysis ignores the religious aspect of the fight the opposition parties are waging, and the religious fervor that makes December such a key month.

This is the Moslem month of mourning, a religious ritual culminating in street processions Dec. 11 to mark the death of Imam Husain, Mohammed's grandson, who is revered by Iran's Shiite Moslems. More than 90 per cent of Iran's 25 million inhabitants belong to the Shiite sect.

In an ominous note, the Paris-based leaders of the Shiite Moslems called for "torrents of blood" to flow

Dec. 11. Militants in Iran have said on that day "either the Shah will go or one million people will die."

The Shiite Moslems oppose the Shah's liberalizing reforms of Iranian society and have publicly vowed defiance of a government ban on customary religious processions.

Since he took power in 1941, the Shah has received heavy U.S. aid and support. U.S. military advisers formed the 240,000 man military machine that keeps the Shah in power.

But recently the U.S. embassy in Tehran has started weekly briefings for staff and members of the U.S. companies in Iran, telling them how to get out.

Leaders are in place to alert groups of companies within two hours of procedures to follow in the event of a decision for total evacuation.

There are about 300 U.S., 200 British, 350 West German and scores of other European and Japanese companies in Iran. In the past few months, opposition mobs have attacked the Tehran offices of Pan American Airways, International Business Machines Corp., as well as the British embassy, British Airways and British banks.

Some observers now question how long the Shah can count on united military support. The army is made up largely of draftees, who spend two years in military service, usually near their homes where they are subject to spreading opposition pressure.

In apparent recognition, the Shah has given the forces a 23-per-cent pay raise and promised another 12.5 per cent for the spring. The officer corps also gets free medical services, food at half cost and rents at 10 per cent a day, compared with as much as 70 per cent paid by civilians.

The test of this guard's loyalty, with its stocks of U.S.-made armor, artillery and aircraft, could come as early as next week.

Meantime, as communications fail and the United States prepares to protect its citizens, unease is growing in the Iranian middle classes that have benefitted under the Shah's rule.

U.S. embassy sources here say the rate of visa applications to its embassy in Tehran has quadrupled this week to between 700 and 800 a day from Iranians anxious to get out before the feared collapse of the government.

FOR LIBERATION

It's the man's turn now

TORONTO (CP) — Women started it. They held up mirrors to themselves and their place in society and called it consciousness-raising.

Men laughed or felt threatened by the sisterhood sessions of a few years ago. Some still laugh or feel insecure. But some, like Bob Alexander, have decided that if you can't beat them, join them.

Alexander, 38, founded in September a men's liberation group which allows men to meet and talk about themselves in a non-competitive way.

"The conventional male world doesn't encourage the expression of feelings, except maybe anger," Alexander said in an interview.

"It allows men to come together in groups but only in a competitive, locker-room way. Men compete over jobs, salaries, sports and women."

An ordained but non-practising United Church minister, a drug counsellor, former student radical and now a husband and father, Alexander said he never had trouble being gentle.

His group best can be labelled sensitivity expanding. Its goal is to help members express their ambivalent feelings toward women—their anger, resentment, gentleness and tenderness.

Alexander, two separated men and an unmarried man are the core members of the group, which meets weekly at members' homes. Other men have drifted in and out, but these four remain.

When the men meet, they usually talk about what is happening to them that week and how they feel about it.

Anderson said a recently-separated man felt bitter toward his wife and the group helped him examine whether his resentment truly was directed at his wife or perhaps at his mother, father or life in general.

Alexander said the members appreciate feminism intellectually but resent it if it has made an intrusion in their personal lives.

The four all have had relationships with feminist women, graduates of sisterhood sessions who forced them to examine themselves as males.

"That was tough for us at first," Alexander said. "We didn't know if we'd formed the group because we'd been told to or whether we really wanted to do it for ourselves."

"I think now we know it's good for us to have close friends of the same sex."

Alexander admits there is a tendency in the group to liberation one-upmanship. They sometimes try to be more liberated, more gentle and more tolerant than each other.

"With men like us, the competition is seeing how un-macho we can be."

Alexander says he knows his philosophy is unpopular with most men but is confident this will change.

When men no longer have to retaliate against women, there can be a return to good manners, he said, meaning whoever gets to the door first opens it.

"It's better to charm than to bully."

FOR QUEBEC MNA

Salary deal sought

A bill that has passed first reading in the Quebec national assembly would raise members' salaries by six per cent and freeze Premier Rene Levesque's annual income $4,300 above Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows that incomes and benefits for political leaders and legislative members across the country vary widely.

Under a complicated new pay formula in Quebec, Levesque, Speaker Clement Richard, Liberal caucus leader Gerard Levesque and Parti Quebecois cabinet ministers would face a pay cut. But the bill includes a provision to freeze their salaries at the 1978 level.

Levesque will earn $78,500 before taxes in 1979, as he did in 1978—compared with Trudeau's $72,200.

However, federal cabinet ministers and the prime minister enjoy a number of prerequisites not available to all provincial representatives.

Trudeau gets his official residence in Ottawa, 24 Sussex Drive, and MPs get taxpayersubsidized food in their restaurants, $1-a-clip haircuts, unlimited-use railway passes and free airline travel between Ottawa and their constituencies.

Salaries plus expenses of provincial premiers range from Levesque's $76,500 and Ontario Premier William Davis's $64,732 down through the premiers of Alberta, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island to Manitoba, where Premier Sterling Lyon makes $35,800 a year.

Salary scales for provincial government members follow roughly the same pattern as shown by the provincial premiers with Quebec again topping the list at $77,600 this year plus a $7,000 tax-free allowance.

The increase now before the assembly would raise that to $29,468 in 1979, plus $7,500 tax-free allowance.

Federal MPs make $26,900 a year plus tax-free expense allowances of $12,000. Senators make the same basic salary but receive no allowance.

The lowest rate of pay for provincial government members who are not in the cabinet is in Nova Scotia, where the basic salary is $9,600 plus $4,800 tax-free expenses, making a total of $14,400 a year.

Income for members in the Prairie provinces and Eastern Canada is between $15,000 and $19,000 including tax-free expense accounts, while that of Ontario members is $26,742 and for British Columbians $24,000.

Travel allowances in Newfoundland vary between $6,225 and $10,225 according to how far a member's constituency is from St. John's.

Ontario has introduced a bill to give MPPs a four-per-cent increase. Earlier this year the federal government boosted salaries by five per cent and Prince Edward Island members had an increase in July.

One pay difference does remain fairly constant across the country—cabinet ministers and leaders of official opposition parties generally make at least double the salaries of ordinary members.

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA - Old politicians never die — they just move to other constituencies. Like John Diefenbaker, 83. And Pierre Trudeau, now 59 (or 60, depending on which set of his vital statistics you accept.)

It was the other day in the Commons, and Dief, who since has declined a previously accepted invitation for an official visit to China, was complaining how the prime minister had been out of touch for so long during his recent jaunt to Bonn and then Morocco.

It had seemed longer than 20 days to Dief who was trying to find out whether the prime minister was putting on or calling off a late fall election.

Natch, the Old Warrior wanted to be around if the nation was going to the polls ... if not, then he would be free to travel to Peking.

So after what seemed an interminable wait, he ran into the PM — or the PM bumped into him — at a government function, and the long-delayed question was asked.

Hansard, the word by word record of Parliament, takes up the story:

Dief: "I said to him that I had wanted to find out, just between us Privy Counsellors, if he would tell me whether, if I went to China, there might be an election at home."

"And do you know what he said to me?"

"He replied that as far as I am concerned, you can go to Peking and go to hell."

"That was the clearest answer that I have ever had from him."

"And for his edification I had to point out to him that in the Hereafter I expect to be Up There, so that we would not be in the same constituency."

Suddenly basic Conservative strategy has changed.

Prime Minister Trudeau, if not to be praised, no longer is to be condemned.

Criticized, mind you, but

Questioned, of course, but with decent deference to his position as prime minister.

Attacked, certainly — an Opposition has to maintain some credibility of muscle — but gently, more in sorrow than in anger.

Because the last thing — the very last desperate extremity — that the increasingly confident Conservatives want, is to make a martyr of the Prime Minister.

To stir the last vestige of public sympathy for him would be disaster.

There's something extremely wry in the sudden turnaround situation.

Only days ago the Liberals, who for years — no, decades — have taken power as their right, regarded "poor Joe," as they called Conservative Leader Clark, as their greatest asset.

Former long-time Tory and now-come Liberal Trade Minister Jack Horner was the last to take a shot at him, sneering that "poor Joe" was a law-school dropout who had never earned a dime in his life.

Then came the campaign for those 15 byelections and the horrified Liberals learned from knocking on doors that while they were thinking all along that "poor Joe" was their best asset, their own Pierre Trudeau was their worst liability.

The Conservatives found out the same thing.

And the byelections confirmed it like neither party ever believed they would, with stunning impact.

Then, came the public opinion polls that 54 per cent of Canadians believe the Liberals should "re-assess" Pierre Trudeau as leader.

So now the once-potent, super-charismatic PET is the Great Tory Asset, and they don't want to lose him.

For to lose him would be to win John Turner for the Liberals. And with Ol' Blazin' Blue Eyes as Liberal leader ... well!

So the word is be nice to Pierre.

Even stiffen Pierre's resolve to hang on as Liberal leader by putting it around that if he quit, he would:

— Show he was afraid of being beaten by Joe Clark.

— Give the party leadership to his old and heartily disliked rival, John Turner.

P.C. MLA

For years the voters of British Columbia have been sold a bill of goods that our only choice on election day is between a so-called free enterprise party and a so-called socialistic one. And while this worn out, tired old theme is stuffed down our throats we have been distracted from the true problem...big government.

We have seen every political party in this country run wild with dollars stripped from taxpayers against their will and used for purposes entirely unjustified by any social need.

In British Columbia both the former N.D.P. government and the present Socred administration have indulged in such an uncontrolled spending spree that taxation is literally strangling our economy. The present government's heavy tax hand may permit it to balance its budget but it is, most surely, preventing you and me from balancing ours.

The present government, in just two years and four months after coming into office, brought down a budget calling for expenditure of over four billion dollars. This is one billion dollars higher than the last budget of the previous government.

To meet this kind of spending it is necessary for the government to extract an average of $1700 from every man, woman and child in British Columbia. This compares with an average of only $600 per capita in the State of California where voters have finally rebelled against high taxation.

Working men and women of British Columbia, small business owners, home owners and especially our citizens on fixed and low incomes can no longer afford to carry a huge and inefficient government bureaucracy. The non-productive segment of our society has overburdened our productive sector. The results can readily be seen in lagging productivity, high unemployment and inflation. Government is not a victim of inflation but the prime cause.

The Conservative party believes that to begin to tap the vast potential of this great province we must leave substantially more money in the hands of those who earn it. We believe that the person who works for his pay is a better judge of how to spend, save or invest it than the politician who taxes it away. We believe that to require a man to go to his government, with hat in hand, and ask for a grant or other handout of the very money that has been taken from him is destructive to human dignity.

Ontario has introduced a bill to give MPPs a four-per-cent increase. Earlier this year the federal government boosted salaries by five per cent and Prince Edward Island members had an increase in July.

One pay difference does remain fairly constant across the country—cabinet ministers and leaders of official opposition parties generally make at least double the salaries of ordinary members.

Title fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Rossman defends the World Boxing Association light heavyweight championship against Aldo Traversaro of Italy tonight in the first step on the road that could lead to an all-America showdown for the undisputed light heavy title. Rossman gained the WBA version of the championship last Sept. 15 by stopping Victor Galindez of Argentina in the 13th round, and Marvin Johnson brought the World Boxing Council title back to the United States last Saturday by stopping Mate Parlov in the 11th round at Marsala, Sicily. Bob Arum, who will co-promote the Rossman-Traversaro fight at the Spectrum, said Monday he has an option to promote three Rossman bouts, including tonight's, and is about to sign an agreement for three more. Arum said he also has the option to promote Johnson's next three fights.

IN MENS BASKETBALL

Houston sweeps weekend

In Terrace Mens Basketball action Thursday night at Skeena Jr. Secondary School, All Seasons Sporting Goods nosed out Skeena Hotel 84-83 in the first game, and in the nightcap contest, Kluss & Sons downed the Ev's Clippers by a 98-76 count. Also in Mens Basketball, the Houston All-Stars made the trip to Terrace to play exhibition games Saturday and Sunday against the Terrace All-Stars.

The opening game Thursday was a close one all the way, as Skeena Hotel had built up a slim 39-37 lead at halftime. It didn't hold up though, as All Seasons put on a bit of a second half spurt to take the game 84-83. Mike Ireland spearheaded the All Seasons attack with a tremendous 42 point effort, while Tom Marvin scored 23. Jon Gurban led Skeena Hotel with 38 points, while Joe Procopchuk had 20.

The second game Thursday saw Kluss & Sons play to a relatively easy win over Ev's Clippers. K&S were the superior team from the start, and held a 40-31 halftime lead. They continued to outplay the Clippers in the second half, and ended up on the top end of a 98-76 final tally. Willie Chemko paced Kluss & Sons with a 19 point game, while Fred Lindsay was close behind with 18. Dave Crawley topped the Ev's Clippers players with 18 points.

The two weekend exhibition games between the Houston All-Stars and two Terrace All-Star teams saw Houston win both Saturday and Sunday. Saturday they played against the Terrace Light Blues, an All-Star team consisting of players from Ev's Clippers and Kluss & Sons, while Sunday the Houston visitors found themselves up against the Terrace Dark Blues, a team made up of players from All Seasons and Skeena Hotel.

The Terrace team started Saturday's game well, and by halftime they enjoyed a slim 35-34 advantage. The Houston squad got untracked in the second half, however, and by the time the final buzzer sounded it was Houston on top by a 91-83 margin. John Brown led Houston with 31 points, while former Terrace player Rod Kluss followed closely with 25. Terrace's top scorer was Dave Crawley, who had 23 points.

In Sunday's action as well, it was the Terrace Dark Blues who got off to a fast start, and at one point early in the contest led 10-4. Houston gradually came on after that, and held a slim 31-30 lead at halftime. They just got stronger in the final half, outscoring Terrace 49-38, to win the match handily, 78-71. The duo of Rod Kluss and John Brown again paced the Houston All-Stars, Kluss leading with 32 points, and Brown contributing 18. In a losing cause for the Terrace Dark Blues, it was Mike Ireland with 23 points, and Doug McKay with 17.

IMLACH FIRED

BUFFALO (CP) — The slumping Buffalo Sabres fired general manager George (Punch) Imlach and coach Marcel Pronovost Monday in a move which the front office of the National Hockey League club said was in the best interests of the team and its fans.

No replacements were named immediately. The Sabres' next scheduled game is in Buffalo Thursday against Los Angeles Kings.

Imlach, 60, has been general manager of the club since it joined the NHL in 1970 and also coached the Sabres for the first two years. Pronovost, 48, was named coach in the summer of 1977.

The Sabres have eight victories, 10 losses and six ties this season after a pair of weekend losses to Montreal Canadiens, 8-1 in Montreal Saturday and 4-1 in Montreal Sunday. They have won only one of their last six starts.

He won four Stanley Cups in 12 seasons as coach and general manager of the Maple Leafs before being fired in May, 1969.

IN MINOR HOCKEY

All Seasons is hot

Terrace teams came through with three wins, two losses and two ties in weekend Minor Hockey Inter-City Rep Team league action.

The All Seasons Midgets kept their hot streak going as they scored two more wins over their arch rivals from Kitimat. In Saturday's 10-3 victory, Doug Richey and Simon Dodd each contributed hat tricks. Singles were scored by Jim Palahicky, Danny Fagan, Bruno Hilder and Ken Wideman. Greg Paulson scored twice in Sunday's 5-3 win. Richey, Hilder and Larry Swanson also scored.

These wins by the Midgets put them on top of their division, and they have two games in hand — both against the winless Smithers Midgets.

The Inland Kenworth Bantams continued to disappoint their fans who feel these boys have the best team in the bantam circuit. The Bantams dropped a 9-6 contest to Prince Rupert Friday night.

Warren Riding and Mel Reimer each scored twice while Jeff Parr and Greg Robson had singles. In the Saturday game, Terrace blew a 5-0 lead and lost 6-5 to Rupert. Riding again scored twice. Glen Palahicky, Roger Tooms and Robson rounded out their scoring. These two losses dropped the Bantams into the cellar of their division.

Terrace Pups continued to improve as they counted a pair of ties against Prince Rupert. Brent Petch and Chris Culp scored in Friday's 2-2 draw while Petch, Culp and Lyle Kennedy got the goals in Saturday's 3-3 tie.

The Twin River Timber Peewees played only one game against Kitimat on the weekend. A lack of ice time in Kitimat prevented the second game from being played. The Peewees continued their domination of their division by whipping Kitimat 11-2 Saturday. Gerry Lambert and Trevor Hendry came up with three-goal performances. Terry Zaporzan had a pair while singles went to Dan McGhee.

Troy Kaye and Jeff Sharples.

Meanwhile at Smithers, Kitimat's Pups won both games against Smithers Pups. Scores were 5-0 and 3-1. Smithers and Kitimat Bantams split. Smithers won 16-5 before Kitimat came back with a 12-6 win.

At Prince Rupert, the Smithers and Rupert Midgets played only one game. Rupert won it 2-0. The second game was defaulted to Rupert when Smithers refused to play because of what they felt was "violent play" by their opponents. Smithers Peewees won both games against Rupert's Peewees by scores of 7-1 and 6-5.

The first half of the schedule winds up next weekend when Smithers Peewees and Midgets visit Terrace for games Friday night starting at 8 and Saturday morning starting at 10. Terrace Peewees will also play at Kitimat in that game to be picked up from this weekend. Time of the game will be announced later.

The Earth Stove

Check these facts before you buy any other stove!

- The Earth Stove burns 1/3 the fuel of many stoves because pre-heating draft manifold promotes efficient and complete combustion like solid fuel power plants. Super-heated air prevents "cooling" of fire unlike manual "hole" drafts do. Even large chunks burn slowly and completely—eliminates frequent ash removal.
- Even temperatures thermostatic draft automatically maintains temperature you select. Levels out uneven cycle of wood combustion (Manual drafts cannot do this). Home temperatures more even than furnace heat.
- Burns 14 hours on one wood load
- Converts to open fire instantly
- Cook top just set thermostat to cooking heat desired—ideal for "Crock-Pot" style cookery.
- Wood gases not wasted—secondary drafts introduce oxygen above primary fire zone to burn volatile gases such as methanol, pyroigneous acid, etc.
- Air tight Prevents heat loss up chimney.
- Constructed of heavy steel
- Fire brick lined for years of service

That's why people love The Earth Stove!

another reason why is because The Earth Stoves' space age Engineering doesn't show. It's decorative charm contributes to any decor. Yes and it's a nice feeling knowing your getting back to basics!

The Earth Stove makes use of modern technology to improve the great institution of Wood Heat.

Here's why the fabulous Fisher® is one of the most efficient heating (or supplemental heating) units that you can put in your home. It can save you up to 80% in the cost of heating your home, vacation home or business.

Wood is our one renewable resource, with almost unlimited potential as an alternative fuel source.

Because of this, Bob Fisher wanted to build a stove that would really harness the burning power of wood—instead of having it just look pretty in a fireplace while the heat goes up the chimney.

Fisher wanted a stove that would continuously heat large areas and serve as a cookstove too. A stove that didn't have to be restarted every morning and wouldn't smoke when the door was opened; a stove that would be rugged enough to last a lifetime.

The result is the now famous Fisher® Stove, manufactured and distributed across the United States and in Canada—one of the largest selling stoves of its kind in the world.

Another howdy to all you fine folks out there in C.B. land, it's that time again where we have to set aside the comic books and put on the old thinking cap, hoping against hope that we can come up with enough goodies to make this a column. I don't know rightly what to blame it on, but it seems each week the thinking part gets harder and harder, and yes, even I can think when I absolutely have to, or at least make a stab at it.

Sunday's coffee break brought out a nice little group and WILD CAT from the Rupert town came down to take it in along with the famous SWINGER with the noticeable high collar. SPOOK set aside all his little

ANTI-ASBESTOS MOVE

Industry worried

BRUSSELS (CP) — Concerned by European Economic Community (EEC) plans to limit the use of asbestos products, Canadian officials and asbestos industry representatives opened exploratory talks with European officials Monday on the question of how Canadian exports would be affected.

The 17-member Canadian delegation, including representatives of the federal, Quebec and British Columbia governments met with EEC commission officials and asbestos users in the nine-member community at commission headquarters here.

Of concern to the Canadians is a plan by the EEC to limit use of the fibre because of medical links with asbestosis, a lung ailment, and claims it causes cancer.

Daniel Perlstein, president of Quebec's National Asbestos Corp., which is to buy out U.S.-controlled Asbestos Corp., estimated one-half of that firm's production is sold in Europe. About 70 per cent of Canadian asbestos production is concentrated in Quebec, British Columbia and Newfoundland also produce the mineral fibre.

Lance Howey of the B.C. economic development office in London said exports may decline if regulations are too tight.

"The object of this whole exercise is that we clearly understand the problem and see that any regulations are realistic," he said.

The nine EEC countries imported $155 million worth of asbestos from Canada in 1977, making the community the second largest customer after the United States.

The proposed directives, to be followed by obligatory legislation in the nine countries, will ban use of asbestos in some products, such as sprayed insulation.

As substitutes become available, the use of asbestos should gradually be phased out. Where safe substitutes already exist, the use of asbestos should be forbidden.

The issue is important to European industry since an estimated 100,000 workers in the community are involved in manufacturing asbestos-

'HAVE TO EDUCATE HIM'

Inuit to brief Clark

OTTAWA (CP) — Inuit leaders will meet Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark Dec. 13 "to educate him about issues in the North," the Inuit Tapirisat said Monday.

"Clark favors big business and northern development because that's where the votes are," Tapirisat president Eric Tagoona said in an interview. "We'll have to educate him."

The Tapirisat, which represents the country's 22,000 Inuit (Eskimos), wants Clark to understand its position on constitutional reform, northern development and proposed amendments to the Northwest Territories Act that will increase regional government seats.

"They (Conservatives) haven't dealt with natives for 15 years and don't really understand the politics involved," Tagoona said.

The Tapirisat was formed in 1973 and began preparing an Inuit land claim for roughly 1.5 million square miles of Canada above the treeline, an area in which 17,000 non-Inuit also live.

Negotiations with the federal government have bogged down over Inuit demands for their own government in the central and eastern Arctic, responsible to the federal government.

The federal government, embroiled in land claim negotiations with other groups in the Yukon and Mackenzie River Valley, seems reluctant to set a precedent in the Arctic.

The Conservatives support expansion of the N.W.T. government, expected to be approved by Parliament before the Christmas break. The Inuit have not recognized the territorial government.

"The Conservatives have said they would grant the N.W.T. provincehood within four years," Tagoona said. "We don't think they should hurry if they form the next government."

The Inuit want their land claim settled by Ottawa because it would be difficult to wrestle political concessions from a new provincial government intent on building its own power base, Tagoona said.

The Inuit also want their rights entrenched in the constitution. They have not signed treaties with the federal government and are not protected as Indians are by federal legislation.

A Dream Come True...

If you've ever dreamed of owning a grandfather clock without having to pay $500 or more, this is your chance!

Yes, for only a few days, you can order this 6-foot tall Grandfather clock direct from our B.C. factory! Traditional cabinetry in a dark walnut finish, with a graceful swinging chime that chimes reliably on the half hour, and counts the full hours, ornamental weights, and the soothing rhythm of the old-fashioned TICK-TOCK you've loved since you were a child.

- EXACTLY AS ILLUSTRATED
- NOT A KIT! THIS IS A FULLY COMPLETED CLOCK

although it does come in 3 parts for shipping and handling purposes. Setting-up time is 15-20 minutes.

- The weights are ornamental because the precisely timed spring-driven movement is automatically wound by two D-cell batteries every eight minutes to give you years of worry-free service, while you listen to the tick-tock SOUND of a pendulum clock.
- The flashlight batteries, which also drive the chime, will last a year to 18 months.
- The movement carries a one-year guarantee. Details enclosed with every clock.

NEW IDEA IN KITCHENS

What's cooking? A new idea that could change the way you cook!

Roasts can now be finished one-third faster than before. Frozen meat roasts in the time it used to take for thawing, baking can be done at lower temperatures, and broiling usually requires less electricity.

This method consists of constantly circulating, and recycling, heated air at high speeds so it strikes all sides of the food, blowing away the cold, until the food is cooked all over at the same time and temperature. There's no need for turning.

The high speed and low temperatures use less energy than with ordinary cooking, so less electricity is consumed. In addition, the natural meat juices stay inside.

To make the best of this thermal theory, a new portable, continuous clean oven has been cooked up by Farberware. Called Turbo Oven it runs on regular household current, can travel anywhere there's electricity and has an automatic timer to turn itself off.

In fact, using this oven may be your only chance to have a lot of hot air working for you.

Here's Help for Ailing Houseplants:

Now's the time to be alert for signs of problems in your greenery. The right steps, taken promptly, can save a favorite plant.

For instance, if you note that your plant's lower leaves are turning yellow or that its stems are becoming soft and dark in color, the plant may be getting too much water. Check to make sure that the drainage hole is not clogged; if the soil has become compacted, repot the plant. Water only when necessary; if in doubt, ask your local nursery expert's advice.

If your plant's stems stretch toward the light and are growing very long, it may be receiving too little light. Pale-colored, small leaves on new stems are also a symptom of this same problem. The remedy is to move the plant to a brighter exposure, or closer to a window. If you are using artificial light, you may have to increase the wattage or the number of bulbs used.

Browning leaf edges, with leaves ultimately dying, indicate that a plant is not receiving enough humidity. Mist the plant regularly, and place its pot on a bed of moist pebbles in a tray.

If your plant seems to grow rapidly, but later wilts and develops a white crust of built-up salts, you're giving it too much fertilizer. Water the plant thoroughly to dissolve built-up salts, re-watering within half an hour to wash out the salts through pot's drainage hole.

On the other hand, plants that fade to a pale green, with lower leaves turning yellow, may be getting too little fertilizer. Small, new leaves or no growth at all are other indications of this condition.

Helpful Tips On Low-Cost Decorating Ideas

REMODELING THE OLDER HOME

A CHARMING BYGONE ERA comes to life when original fixtures and cabinets contrast with greenery, fresh wallcoverings and appropriate furniture. A new booklet, the "Kitchen and Bath Idea Book," tells you what and how to get what you need to improve an older home.

Most Americans now live in houses at least 15 years old that challenge both their ingenuity and their bank accounts.

In the kitchen and bath, where fixtures are already fixed, the challenge grows, forcing the homeowner to work around what's already there. You can make even these rooms attractive if you keep these suggestions in mind:

1. Choose furnishings in scale with your rooms. Your breakfast nook will seem larger when you use a light-weight Parsons table with bamboo, bentwood or rush-bottomed chairs. Avoid placing large, heavy pieces in small rooms where people will have to squeeze by them.

2. Make a floor plan and arrange furniture in convenient groupings. If the area is large, divide it visually into sections and place furniture logically.

In a living room, for example, a carved mantle-piece should be the focal point and the right spot for appropriate in bathrooms and kitchens where heat and moisture soon ruin wallpaper.

A 28-page, full-color "Kitchen and Bath Idea Book," that contains other suggestions, along with numerous remodeled room scenes and "case histories," can be yours for 50¢ when you write: GTR Wallcovering Co., C.N. 01550-PR, Trenton, N.J. 08650.

4. Make liberal use of plants as accessories. Nothing freshens up an old house like a touch of greenery. Try concealing old-fashioned plumbing in the bathroom with a lavish potted plant sitting on the floor, and fill empty spaces on tops of radiators and windowsills with leafy ferns.

A tall plant can do wonders for a tight but otherwise empty little corner.

None of these changes need be expensive when you cover old walls and re-cover old furniture with matching or compatible fabrics and materials.

Salad

To make this condiment, your poet begs
The pounded yellows of two hard-boiled eggs;
Two boiled potatoes,
passed through the kitchen sieve,
Smoothness and softness
to salad give;
Let onion atoms lurk
within the bowl,
And, half-suspected,
animate the whole.
Of mordant mustard add
a single spoon,
Distrust the condiment
that bites so soon;
But deem it not, thou man of herbs, a fault

To add a double quantity of salt,
And, lastly o'er the flavored compound toss
A magic soup-spoon of anchovy sauce.
Oh, green and glorious!
Oh, herbaceous treat!
'Twould tempt the dying
anchorite to eat;
Back to the world he'd turn his fleeting soul,
And plunge his fingers
in the salad bowl!
Serenely full, the
epicure would say,
Fate can not harm me,
I have dined today!

Dollar-Wise Decorating

DECORATING A CHILD'S ROOM

By Joy Miller

A parent who surprises a child with a new room robs the youngster of half the fun of decorating. A child denied the anticipation... planning... and part of the do-it-yourself execution loses a good opportunity for self-expression.

You can't blame a child for wanting to be in on such a personal project. It's unfair when the children concerned are neglected and adults completely "take over."

Whether you're decorating with a tot or a teenager, let the youngster pick the predominant color.

It would be a good idea to start with the floor. Color could begin there.

Some of the new self-stick carpet tiles from Armstrong have rugged enough textures to withstand rough-and-tumble activity from two rugged boys in a room and are do-it-yourself easy as well as durable. Installing carpet squares is such a cinch that (with only a little help at room perimeter) it's an excellent D-I-Y project for an older child!

A special sport, hobby, or collection can provide a theme and allow a favorite color to run riot in accessories that depict the interest.

As for furniture, if your daughter is wild-for-wicker, for instance, you don't have to buy lots of new pieces; one wicker chair (from a second-hand store) spray-painted will make a good start.

A bedroom is more than a place to sleep...so don't forget storage. Trundle beds available from Thomasville are not only space-savers but have extra storage drawers as well.

An easy desk to put together could be two painted file drawer cabinets topped with an inexpensive plywood top and covered with smooth vinyl resilient flooring.

Shelves mounted over a bed, desk, or on a wall can hold books, clock, radio, and even plants...and are functional as well as decorative.

At best, the room should reflect a child's personality and should be comfortable and inviting.

The simplest materials can make decorating a child's room a delightful experience and inspire environment-control creativity throughout life.

Timber Sale
Licence A-10732
A PUBLIC AUCTION will be held by the Regional Manager at Prince Rupert, B.C., at 11:00 a.m., or as soon as possible thereafter, on February 2, 1979, for the purchase of Licence A-10732, to authorize the harvesting of not more than 102,600m³ of timber each year for a one (1) year period.

Cutting permits to be issued under authority of this licence will authorize cutting on an area situated in the vicinity of Dyne Lake, Cassiar Land District, within the Skeena PSYU in accordance with a development plan to be submitted by the successful tenderer.

To be eligible to submit bids and have those bids considered a tenderer must have an allocated annual volume in the Skeena PSYU available for application to this licence of not less than the annual harvest volume authorized by this licence. Furthermore, an eligible tenderer must be the operator of a wood-processing plant with barking and chipping facilities utilizing logs to a 4-inch top diameter. Each eligible tenderer will be required to submit proof that the timber to be authorized for cutting is required as a supply to keep his wood-processing plant operating to the capacity approved by the Licensor.

Anyone who is unable to attend the auction in person may submit a sealed tender, to be opened at the hour of auction and treated as one bid.

Particulars may be obtained from the Forest Ranger, Box 215, Hazelton, B.C. V0J 1Y0; the Regional Manager, Market Place, Prince Rupert, B.C. V8J 1B9, or the Chief Forester, Legislative Buildings, Victoria. (a-DS,12,19,27,32,9,16,23)

NEWS IN BRIEF

Faulty figures get blame

OTTAWA (CP) — Inaccurate monthly trade figures have been helping drive down the value of the dollar, prompting Statistics Canada to consider delaying their release until they are more up to date.

Officials at the federal agency blame slow reporting of export figures for the wide differences between the preliminary figures—released about four weeks after the end of the month—and revised figures released several weeks later.

The situation was particularly bad during the summer when edge traders in foreign currency markets were seizing on any piece of bad news to sell Canadian dollars, driving down their value.

Two monthly reports showed incorrectly that there had been trade deficits in June and July when there had actually been a surplus. The dollar plunged nearly a full cent in July—to less than 88 cents U.S.—when preliminary trade figures showed a $93-million trade deficit for June. Revised figures later showed there had been a trade surplus of $95 million.

Development the keynote

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Labrador development, more emphasis on agriculture and reforestation were promised Monday in the speech from the throne opening a new session of the Newfoundland legislature.

The speech, read by Lt.-Gov. Gordon A. Winter, also mentioned plans for a provincial resource development bank and extension of the high school education system to grade 12 from grade 11 by September, 1980.

Premier Frank Moores, ill with pneumonia, missed the opening of the fourth session of the 37th general assembly. The throne speech lacked details of how government plans were to be implemented. Traditionally, details come later as legislation covering various programs is introduced.

The house is to sit until Dec. 12 and then adjourn until the new year.

Radiologists walk out

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Radiologists at Royal Inland Hospital withdrew their services Monday in a dispute over professional fees, hospital administrator Norman Barr said.

Barr said one of the six radiologists on staff showed up for work Monday to handle emergency cases.

The radiologists, who are paid $51,500 a year for working halftime, are seeking a 10-per-cent wage increase.

Hughes aid loses appeal

VANCOUVER (CP) — County court Judge Ray Paris has dismissed a motion by John Meier, a former aide to the late billionaire reclusive Howard Hughes, that would have halted a hearing into his extradition to the United States.

Meier's lawyer, John Taylor, claimed that the extradition treaty between Canada and the U.S. does not cover the offence Meier has been charged with—obstruction of justice through the use of forged documents.

However, Judge Paris said the extradition treaty must be applied liberally, and allowed the hearing to proceed.

China, France agree

TOKYO (AP) — China and France signed a seven-year economic co-operation agreement Monday and Chinese Vice-Premier Teng Hsiao-ping said his country will buy French equipment for two nuclear power plants, the Hsinhua news agency reported.

The Chinese agency said total trade between the two countries over the seven-year period would be about $13.6 billion. The agreement was signed in Peking by the French and Chinese trade ministers and witnessed by Teng.

Hsinhua gave no details of Teng's comment on the power plant purchase.

The Paris newspaper Le Monde said the sale of two French nuclear power plants costing about $4.5 billion is not mentioned in the agreement, but was confirmed by Li Chiang, China's external trade minister. The newspaper said France also is likely to supply fuel for the reactors.

Le Monde's reporter in Peking said an annex to the agreement specifies that France grant China export credits totalling about $8.8 million over 10 years. The credit agreement bears an annual interest rate "close to the 6.5 per cent accorded by Japan to China," Le Monde said.

China and Japan signed a treaty of peace.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My head is spinning with indecision. I'm in the process of getting a divorce, and my husband is begging me to give him another chance.

The problem has always been that Harry can't resist young girls! I was 16 and he was 27 when we married, and during our six-year marriage Harry got five girls pregnant! One was barely 15, and he'd have gone to jail for sure if his boss hadn't retained a really good lawyer. After that Harry had a vasectomy and now we can't have any more children. We have one little boy and I've had four miscarriages, and I've always wanted another child.

I decided to divorce him after I caught him in the bushes in broad daylight with his 18-year-old niece at a family 4th of July picnic.

Abby, Harry is really a sweet guy and a wonderful provider. (He's a top salesman.) Half of me says, "Take him back," and the other half says, "Go through with the divorce."

I may be crazy, but I still love him.

PRISONER OF LOVE

DEAR PRISONER: Listen to the half with the brains in it and don't take him back until he gets into therapy. If you resume your marriage in his present state, prepare to live indefinitely with a weak man who has a weakness for young girls.

DEAR ABBY: Where is it written that it is bad manners to tip the owner? I mean the owner of a saloon, a restaurant, a beauty parlor or a barber shop. When the owner is right there serving the public I think he (or she) is every bit as entitled to a tip as an employee.

If there is such a rule of etiquette, I think it is dumb and should be done away with.

What do you think?

A QUESTION OF TIPPING

DEAR QUESTION: Some die-hard traditionalists insist that "owners of the establishment should not be tipped." However, I believe good service should be appropriately rewarded regardless of who provides it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SICK OF THE SAME DRESS whose co-worker wears the same dress for two weeks straight that she's lucky she doesn't work with my husband.

He wears the same pair of trousers every day until they wear out.

He says it's too much trouble to take the things out of his pockets every night!

GIVEN UP ON HIM

DEAR GIVEN UP: Your husband is slackadicalical.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — OLD COLLEGE GRADS CHEER HOME GAMES.

Today's Cryptquip clue P equals A

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Horoscope

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)

Don't expect old problems simply to go away now, but at least, you'll gain an insight today on how to handle them in the future.

TAURUS

(Apr. 20 to May 20)

The concerns of children or dependents require your attention now. Protect assets in joint financial dealings. Account practicality.

GEMINI

(May 21 to June 20)

There are some domestic duties which need to be handled now. Talk things over with a mate or one who is close to insure needed cooperation.

CANCER

(June 21 to July 22)

You needn't worry yourself sick. Mental work or problems seem difficult, yet progress still can be made. Find one quiet moment for yourself in the p.m.

LEO

(July 23 to Aug. 22)

Instead of worrying about a shortage of funds, use today to balance the books — at least on paper. Don't let financial worries affect self-esteem.

VIRGO

(Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

You may feel you have too much responsibility already to tackle something new, yet the opportunity arises. Perhaps, you're underestimating yourself.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

A day to avoid negative thinking. Relatives may have problems now that make you feel inadequate. Care needed in travel.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

"A friend in need is a friend indeed" in most cases, but not today, when you'll have to be wary of financial dealings with others.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Career progress may seem slow, but attend to duty. What's more, higher-ups seem pre-occupied and may not be receptive to your ideas.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

Not a good time to receive a favorable response from publishers, and teachers or advisers seem inaccessible. Practice self-analysis.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

You can make new friends today, but don't involve them with your problems. You may be unable to attend a social function.

PISCES

(Feb. 19 to Mar. 20)

It will be difficult to receive cooperation from others re career interests, but you still can put in a good day's work yourself.

YOU BORN TODAY won't find contentment in a routine job, as your love of freedom and novelty thrives on constant change. You'd do well in an occupation that brings you in contact with a rapid turnover of clients. You can run a restaurant, rent apartments, manage hotels, and are a born salesman. If your curiosity extends to mental planes, then you'd make a good lawyer, writer, speaker, doctor, engineer or politician. Your sense of the dramatic finds a ready outlet in the entertainment world. For your best success aim for the top; otherwise you may not make the most of your talents. Birthdate of: Walt Disney, filmmaker; Strom Thurmond, politician; and Christina Rossetti, poet.
